College student

About Me

I'm a college student Vinodhini second-year computer science student with a strong interest in coding. I am skilled in Java, Python, and Java Swing, focusing on building applications and improving my programming abilities. Currently, I am learning data structures, with a particular emphasis on one-dimensional (1D) and multi-dimensional (2D) arrays. My passion for coding drives me to explore and strengthen my problem-solving skills. As I continue my journey in computer science, I was eager to expand my knowledge and work on more challenging projects.
